

I have been appalled by the destruction of freedom of speech in the United States over the last few years. The consolidation of media in our country should streamline the delivery of news and provide much more diverse reporting. Instead, the effect of media consolidation has created very biased reporting, and is often attempting to manipulate public opinion. The decision of Sinclair Broadcasting to force their stations to air one sided documentaries like "Stolen Honor" seem not only irresponsible, but likely an illegal use of public air waves.

Please thoroughly scrutinize this practice and especially Sinclair Broadcasting for this incident. I'm sure the FCC has it's hands full with consolidation of media issues, but this incident deserves quick action. "Stolen Honor" is not a documentary, it is a special interest advertisement. The information contained in "Stolen Honor" has already been discredited by the proof of military records. To run this documentary at such a critical time not only discredits the military career of one person, it discredits all military records. That is a serious mistake and should be stopped as soon as possible!

Thank you for your quick action on this issue,

Brad Taylor
